1943 Training

The Athletics will train at Wilmington, Del., using the modern stadium and fine playing field of the "Blue Rocks," Wilmington's representative in the Interstate League, making their headquarters at the Du Pont Hotel.

In order to reduce travel to a minimum in compliance with Office of Defense Transportation orders and suggestions, all major league clubs will train either at home or as near to their home cities as possible.

In 1942 the A's trained at Anaheim, Calif., and by training at Wilmington this year a comparative saving of 307,800 man-miles will be effected.

The players will arrive at Wilmington March 24th and daily workouts will be held until time for the opening of the American League season, April 21st.
